السَّلَامُ عَلَيْكَ يَا أبا عَبْدِ اللَّهِ وَعَلَى الْأَرْوَاحِ الَّتِي

With his parents

وَيُطْعَمُونَ الطَّعَامَ عَلَى حُبِّهِ مِسْكِينًا وَيَتِيمًا وَأَسِيرًا

And they give food in spite of love for it to the needy, the orphan, and the captive

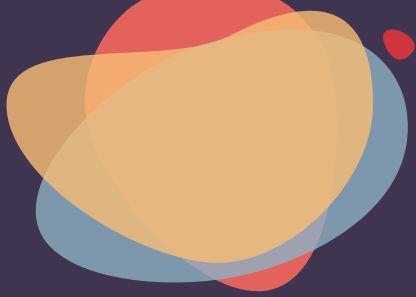

إِنَّمَا نُطْعِمُكُمْ لِوَجْهِ اللَّهِ لَا نُرِيدُ مِنْكُمْ جَزَاءً وَلَا شُكُورًا

[Saying], "We feed you only for the face [i.e., approval] of Allah. We wish not from you reward or gratitude.

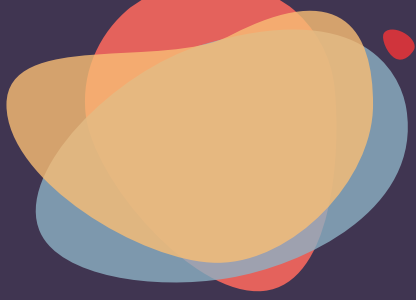

إِنَّا نَخَافُ مِنْ رَبِّنَا يَوْمًا عَبُوسًا قَمْطَرِيرًا

Surely we fear from our Lord a stern, distressful day.

سورة النساء ٨-٩

- One day, Prophet Muhammad's grandchildren, Hassan and Hussein, who were toddlers at the time, fell very ill. The Prophet advised their concerned parents, Imam Ali ibn Abu Talib and Lady Fatima (the Prophet's daughter), to make a vow to God that if Hassan and Hussein recovered, they would fast for three days – and make a vow they did. By the grace of God, Hassan and Hussein recovered, and the family (along with their maid, Fitha) began to fast. What ensued are events that display the utmost level of generosity.
- The family fasted their first day, and as they were about to break their fast on the small amount of bread they had, there was a knock on their door. It was a destitute man who said, "Oh Household of the Prophet, I am a poor Muslim and I am hungry – will you give me food?" Without hesitation, the family gave up the little they had to the needy man, and slept that night having only water to break their fast. And with this they began their second day of fasting.

- As they were about to break their fast on day two, they heard a knock on the door. It was an orphan who stood outside their door, begging for food. Just like the night before, the family gave up their bread and broke their fast on water alone.
- On the third and final fasting day, someone knocked on the holy family's door. It was a (recently released, non-Muslim) prisoner who, just like those before him, pleaded for food. Once again, the family gave up all they had.
